Jean-ology for summer

CHEW ON THIS. Candy-colored denims from SM Department Store

JEANS WON'T BE taking a backseat to your bikinis and board shorts this summer. Your trusted old denims are getting a bit of a makeover this season. Countless people have declared 2008's jeans trends as "confusing." We think not. On these pages, 2bU! gives you a lowdown on this season's "jeannovations."

1. Legs are getting wider. We can hear applause from women all over. Wide-leg pants, which are more flattering than the unforgiving skinny jeans, are going to be hotter than the scorching summer sun. Don't think baggy—think "controlled fullness."

2. Staying skinny. Don't throw out those skinny jeans just yet. If you've been loving your pair, no worries. They're not completely out.

3. Higher and higher. Those who hate low-rise jeans have reasons to cheer. Waistlines are getting higher and higher. Jeans that sit at your waist are back, helping create curvy, hourglass figures to those who wear them. Goodbye, muffin-top. Goodbye, nasty peeks at a stranger's underwear.

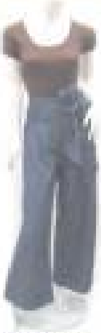

4. Raid your boyfriend's closet. Or buy a pair that creates the illusion that you did. Straight-leg men's denim are a hot look this season. They're baggy, relaxed and ultra-comfortable.

5. Distress, distress, distress. Slip on jeans that look like they've been broken in. Worn, distressed and [illegible] distressed jeans are very [illegible] the difference between looking like you've had some wild times with your pants and looking like you've been ravaged by a pack of wild bears.

6. Who wears the trousers? You will. Denims get a dressier update this season—with trouser jeans. They are a great addition to your wardrobe—classic, stylish and can be dressed up and dressed down in an instant with the right accessories.

7. Color your world. This season's jeans come in all colors of the rainbow—purple, green, pink, yellow. Wear them loud, wear them proud.

8. Rock light. If you're sticking to blue (or black) denim, opt to go a few shades lighter, a pale blue wash will contrast beautifully with a dark-colored top.

9. If you're brave, try white. Most girls think white pants are best left to the daring (and those who aren't prone to spilling stuff on themselves). While good white jeans are hard to find, those who manage to score one are rewarded with a fashion piece that can go from sporty to sexy in a snap.

10. Ultimately, it's still the fit. Skinny, boyfriend, distressed, wide-leg, trousers—it won't matter if your jeans don't fit well. The cuts and washes are exciting, but the most important thing is to find a pair that suits you. A good fit never goes out of style.

Stick to a look that won't embarrass you years from now

Do's and don't's for graduation day

ADMIT IT: AT LEAST ONCE in your life, you've laughed at a relative's graduation photo. Big hair, purple eye shadow, orange blush, red lips—they're the stuff nightmares are made of. To avoid committing the same mistake, stick to a fresh, classic look on your own graduation.

Instead of choosing the trendy colorful looks that are prevalent this season, opt for a demure, classic look. While this may initially seem boring, keep in mind that photos from your graduation day will be repeatedly referenced to show to random friends and relatives, as well as your future boyfriends, children and grandchildren.

Reader says 'Adarna' is the first

FEEDBACK

From Glenn Galvez [illegible], New Jersey USA:

I just want to comment on the article published March 12 in your section. It said that "Batbot" intends to be the first-ever Pinoy full-length animated film. Every animation movie, it seems, is trying to claim to be "the first." As far as I know, "Adarna" is the first local animation film. It participated in the MMFF in 1997 and got a special award as, yes, the first Pinoy animation movie. I remain your fan. God bless you.

On 2nd Avenue

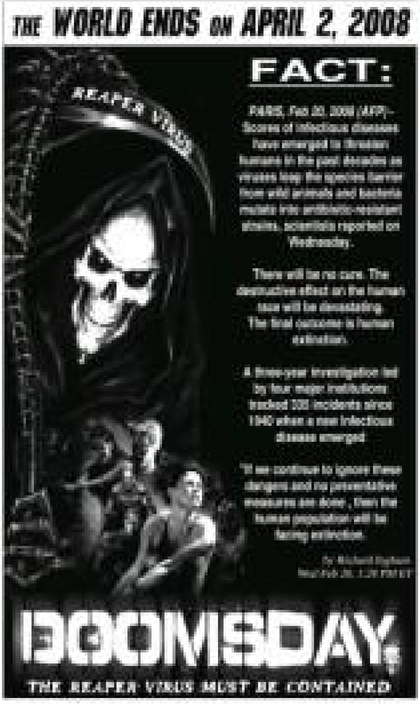

From Lei Reyes Landicho [illegible]:

I am an ardent viewer of "Mad Men" because of its sophisticated storytelling and the exceptional acting and cinematography.

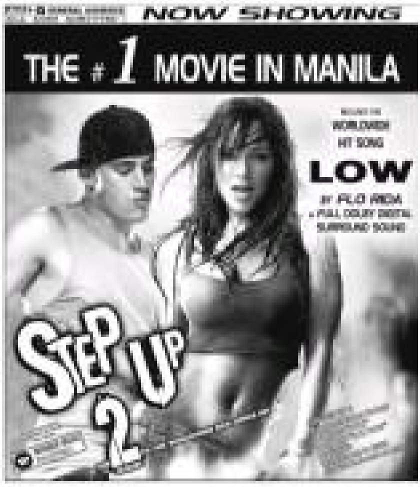

Pirated copies of this Golden Globe award-winning series have made its way to local DVD stalls but I prefer watching it on cable television.

Just a point of clarification: Contrary to what [illegible] last March 12, "Mad Men" is not aired on Velvet but ... on Solar Entertainment's 2nd Avenue.
